

Geopolitics of Forest Water – Uncharted Territory

Case Clinic
by Prof.
Irena Creed

What issue does the Case Clinic focus on?

The Case Clinic focuses on the role of forests, such as the forests of the Amazon and Congo Basins, in the global water cycle.

What is one among many challenges to discuss?

Governments must focus on the role of forests for water, not just forests for (de-)carbonization, and consider positive and negative relations across scales.

What would be one among many opportunities that results from this case?

One opportunity is to implement new institutional and governance frameworks to optimise climate-forest-water management and avoid water scarcity by reducing the fragmentation of governance within and between forest and water agencies.
